Love Is All There Is Nademus

Good day, entities. I am Nademus come forth to render the idea of love as the only avenue for life. What do I mean when I say such a thing? What I mean is this. Love, that aspect, that condition of being, that pure energetic essence of life itself, is literally the only avenue of experience. Love is the basis of thought, which forms the basis of manifestation, calling forth the visual representation of life, as you know it. I make reference to life, as you know it purposefully, because life, as you know it, is not exclusive in form and function to the life teeming in the universe. What I say here is a profoundly simple thing. I am saying that life does indeed abound in the universe. There are billions of suns shining forth the energy of light and support that renders their solar systems alive and thriving with life forms engaged, divergent and emanating fruitfulness of that point of essence of what is known to be aliveness.

That you hold a certain resonance to life and that your resonance expresses as individuals and as a society, is representative only of a tiny fraction of the potential realities playing out in the mass field of possibility called the Essence of God, the image of love diversified. Life is so full with the rich tapestry of creation that limitation is unknown as recognized by the huge number of populations of divergent life forms. In other words, given the freedom of imagination, that which is Source Energy, All That Is, Mother/Father Principle, Unified Field, life in its basic form expands upon itself in form and function ranging from the most simplistic of amoebic life to the richness and complexity of mankind and other high forms of life.

But just what does that mean to you? And how does this kind of purpose play out in a world of darkness becoming light and entering into its state of ascension? What a question you might say. We are living that reality. We love to the best of our ability. We attempt to balance fear with reason. We reach out to assist and help our brothers and sisters. What else is there? And indeed, what else is there!

The answer is, and you already know it, there is nothing else to do but love. I repeat, clearly and simply. There is nothing else to do but love. And legions of light workers are waking up to that very fact. Yes, waking up to that fact, but not to the understanding of it. For that understanding is in plain view. You understand that it is easy to state your purpose and to express the talk to elaborate upon what you understand your purpose to be. It flows from you beautifully and it triggers the darkness to question and investigate or to challenge with combative fervor. Yes, you can talk about love and to the best of your ability do you also live your wisdom and walk your talk. But there is more. And that more comes from the deep knowing that is bubbling up beneath the surface of your being, ready to spontaneously emit the essence of truth that life is, ready to pour into the wounds of darkness, the salve of love that heals the ideas of separation.

You are masters awakening to your state of collective knowing. Though a young, adolescent society, you hold the intentions of a greater reality and you hear the heartstrings of that greater reality as it shares its essence through words such as these and interactions that speak of your unity with All That Is. Yes, there is a potential reality that thrives in hearts laden with fear and mistrust of their own divine nature. This fear squeals as the un-oiled wheel, garnering the attention of those still slumbering. And in their slumber do you note the occurrences of fear on all levels. These occurrences need not be enumerated, as you know them well - war, hunger, greed and more with all the ramifications of fear that are attached and festering in society. It is you, the light workers, who understand. And it is you, the light workers, who are here, on purpose, to walk the talk of God.

When you are confronted with the fear that lives in your midst, know that you have attracted this fear for reasons that are grounded in Universal Law. You have the spectacular nature of love and how that love engages with itself in cohesion.

You are opening to the knowledge resident within you that love is all there is. It is the only real thing in your experience. And love is not about doing or performing but about being. Love is that thriving essence of life and life is everywhere. Contrary to what you are being told, you are not alone in the universe and you know that because of this inherent understanding of love and the knowing that love is life. And if all things are love, and life is love, then there is nothing else. The abundance of life abounds.

So, when faced with a choice, and you are in each moment, know that when you seek truth, the only answer, the one avenue of thought, the only power in the universe, is love. Choosing love is choosing self-awareness and when you choose self-awareness, you see beyond the veil. Be open to life and be open to the life and love within everyone, even those whose actions seem to bely that truth of their divine nature. Know that they enact fear out of aligning to fear and stepping away from center and balance. That is the only difference between them and you. You are closer to center than they are. You have aligned to the greater truth and pay less heed to the array of illusion which has for eons fed your thoughts with ideas, symbols, conditions, requirements and mandates for life.

There is no mandate to life. There is freedom and allowance and the clarity that love offers. So, look around you and discipline your thoughts to allow for the love that burns deep within and sets the tone for all expressions of life. See fear only as an opportunity to offer greater and greater portions of love. For that is what fear requests, to love the darkness so much that your loving light supports the gentle but dramatic resurfacing of truth into prominence of expression and being. Love with all your might and in the face of fear, love even more. You will find great opportunity in your midst and great movement of your soul on its journey of purpose within this material realm. Remember always that you are divine and that the divinity is the sacred space of the soul.

You are profoundly loved. I bid you adieu. So be it. Indeed.
